The much awaited, much vaunted Gandhi Institute of Computer Education of Bhavan, open especially to unemployed, students between classes 10 and 12 of underprivileged youth, saw the light of day at the E.S.V.
Hall with all tan fare and éclat on Sept 15. It was justifiably jubilant for Sri. H.N. Suresh, Director, Bangalore Kendra who had worked hard to bring it to this centre.

Appropriately, the centre was approved by Bhavan's Vice-President Sri. Murali Deora, MP and former

Dr. M. Veerappa Moily, Union Minister for Petroleum and Natural Gas, rotates the symbolic Charaka to mark the inauguration of the Gandhi Institute of Computer Education- As Charaka rotates computer starts functioning

Union Minister, who is unarguably the father of this prestigious programme of the Bhavan, which was launched in 1996.

To date, as many as 24,000 students have benefitted from the programme spread across the length and breadth of the country, though Bangalore has the distinction of being the first centre to set up the programme in Karnataka.

The launching of course material by Dr. M. Veerappa Moily, along with Sri.K.G. Raghavan, Sri. Murali S . Deora, Sri. N. Ramanuja and Sri. H.N. Suresh.

Sri. H.N. Suresh, Director, BVB briefs the media about the launching of Gandhi Institute of Computer Education. Along with him are Sri. Ashok Kamble, Dean Bhavan's Gandhi Institute of Computer Education, Mumbai, Sri. K.N. Ramaswamy, Director, BVB Chennai, Smt. Basanthi Roy, Director, Bhavan's Gandhi Institute of Computer Education, Sri. H.K. Kejrival, Vice-Chairman, BVB, Sri. Murali S. Deora, Vice - President, Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan, Mumbai and Sri. K.G. Raghavan, Hon Secretary, BVB

Speaking on the occasion, Sri. Deora described that in all, the Bhavan has proposed to set up 100 such centres. Indigent students from backward classes between the ages of 18 and 35 are provided computer education here, the training itself taking into consideration the needs and requirements of the trainees. The Bangalore Centre is the 53rd centre, he added.

He revealed that the Bhavan started the computer programme with a donation of one lakh dollars of Jogen Pakung of Japan. Like him, Bill Gates and some other philanthropics have extended a helping hand for the programme.

Dr. Veerappa Moily, Union Minister for Petroleum and Natural Gas, while complementing the Kendra on its new venture, revealed that in a move to creating job opportunities for the unemployed, a National Artisan Centre will come into being on October 2, at Chikballapur. On a rough estimate about 25 per cent graduates are unemployed. The new centre will impart specialized training to such graduates, he added.

Earlier, Sri N. Ramanuja, Chairman, Bhavan Karnataka welcomed the gathering and explained the prospects of the project.

Sri. Murali S. Deora, Member of Rajya Sabha and Vice - President, Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan, Mumbai, visit Bhavan-BBMP Public school at Srirampuram on September 16, 2013.

At a time when the nation is facing moral degradation in the wake of terrorism, violence against women and unbridled criminal acts, festivities like Raksha Bandhan will go a long way to reaffirm unity and integrity among our people, declared Justice Y Bhaskara Rao, Lokayukta of Karnataka.

Launching the tying of Raksha Bandhan at a function jointly organised by the Bhavan, Bharat Vikas Parishath and the MP Birla Institute of Management at the Khincha Auditorium on August 20, Sri Bhaskar Rao, a former Chief Justice of the State High Court, recalled that

TOP JURISTS SEE WAY FOR PEACE, AMITY IN RAKHI FEST

Indian culture was once like a lush garden with flowers of different hues. But today 'we see that cultural edifice vandalized'. He agreed that the various religious faiths like Hindu, Buddhist, Jain, Islam and Christian espoused an identical message of peace and communal amity. But, alas, in practice, 'we have utterly failed to live upto that ideal'. The time has come for all civilized people to work together to revive that feeling of one-ness and Raksha Bandhan can show the way out, he asserted.

Justice, Dr. M Rama Jois, MP and former Governor of Bihar and Jharkhand, who is the motivator of the programme, felt that when human emotions and cultural values received their due importance, atrocities on women will automatically come down. Indian culture fostered sisterly approach to all women. That noble instinct has alas been demolished and it is time that earnest efforts are made to revive that spirit, he added.

TYING RAKSHA BANDHAN SHOWS THE WAY

Earlier, after the singing of ‘Vande Matharam’, by way of invocation by Sri Vishal Jain, Sri N Ramanuja, Chairman Bhavan Karnataka, welcomed the gathering, Sri H N Suresh, Director proposed a vote of thanks.

Tying Raksha Bandhan by women to men in the gathering was the highlight of programme.

Handsome tributes were showered on popular poet Prof. Nissar Ahmed by speakers led by leading lexicographer Prof G Venkatasubbiah at a function at Bhavan's ESV Hall on September 8.

The function was jointly got up by the Bhavan and the Gokak Vangmaya Trust when the annual Gokak award was presented to Prof. Nissar. The award carries a purse, citation and other adjuncts.

Prof Venkatasubbiah who released the second edition of 'Samarasave Jeevana', a masterly work of Dr. Gokak, said that Nissar's writings stand out for their fluid loam. While his prose is well knit, his poems revel in lucidity, he added.

Prof. C N Ramachandran, who spoke on his prose, wished that Nissar had not penned his wonderful lyric Nityotsava. For in the maze of that lyric, he has been recognised only as a poet, overlooking the fact that he is as good a writer of prose too.

On the occasion of the launching of second edition of the Prof. V.K. Gokak's Samarasave Jeevana book. From LtoR Prof. M.H. Krishnaiah, Sri. Anil Gokak, Prof. K.S. Nissar Ahmad, Prof. G. Venkatasubbaiah, Sri. Gangadhara Setty, Sri. N. Ramanuja, Sri. Ramachandran, Sri Sanjay Adiga and Sri. H.N. Suresh

Together with his translated works, they all stand testimony to the Professor's calibre as a composite writer.

Prof. M H Krishnaiah, a well-known litterateur, said Prof. Nissar's poetry stood out for subtle humour, sometimes bordering on sarcasm. They unveiled a sort of imprecation. Yet his poems are free from any kind of protest or revolt, he added.

Replying to the felicitation, Prof. Nissar who thanked the Gokak Trust profusely for the felicitation, observed that for a good-hearted individual poetry inspires noble ideals in life. He said poetry channels views for understanding life, as it did in the lives of Pampa, Ranna, Vyasa or Valmiki. Likewise, sound historic sense is awakened in Gokak's writings. That is how he was able to produce a work which is comparable with a masterpiece like Kuvempu's 'Ramayana Darshanam'. The result is a work like "Bharata Sindu Rashmi" which aptly appropriates India's glorious history.

Besides Sri Y N Gangadhara Setty, Chairman of the Trust, Sri Anil Gokak, son of the famed litterateur, Sri N Ramanuja, Chairman. Bhavan Karnataka, H N Suresh, Director of Bhavan were among the dignitaries present on the occasion. ●

By the year 2020, India would be on top among nations with patients suffering from heart related disease, according to Dr.C N Manjunath, Director, Jayadeva Institute of Heart Science and Research. He was speaking at a function at Khincha hall, jointly organised by the Bhavan and the Bangalore Press on August 18.

Speaking after the release of three books, 'My Tryst with Destiny' (English) 'Heart Disease and Heart Attacks' and 'Diabetes' (both in Kannada)

all authored by the well-known physician and cardiologist, Dr V Paramesvara, Dr Manjunath said, 60 years ago the situation was not like this. At the time, he recalled, that the pressure on human kind was much less. But today everyone is experiencing one kind of pressure

Launching of the book "My Tryst with Destiny", by Prof .Dr. Chandrakant B. Patil, Professor and Head of the Dept. of Cardiology St. John's Medical College and Hospital, Prof. Dr. C.N. Manjunath Director and Head of the Dept. of Cardiology, Sri. Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research, Sri. H.R. Ananth, Managing Director, The Bangalore Press, Sri. H.N. Suresh Director, BVB, and Hon'ble Justice Sri. M.N. Venkatachaliah, Former Chief Justice of India, Dr. Parameshvara, Noted Cardiologist and Dr. Nalini Parameshvara and Sri. N. Ramanuja, Chairman, BVB

or the other. “Laughter is disappearing from human faces”, he bemoaned

Referring to the causes for the drastic change, Dr. Manjunath attributed it to changing life styles, adding that breast cancer is also due to this very change.

Dr. Manjunath said that today the women folk were working on the same line of their counterparts. Besides, they were taking grater care of their husbands and children. But they were neglecting their own health, taking their own time to go to a doctor.

Dr. Manjunath stressed that it was imperative that men past the age of 35 and women over 45, should consult the doctor atleast once a year. Quoting statistics from the Jayadeva Institute, Dr. Manjunath said of those undergoing medical tests in his hospital, 5,000 were heart related patients. Among them 45 were below 25 years. Even youngsters between 18 years of age were victims of heart disease, he bemoaned.

Dr. B. Chandrakanth Patil, Professor at St. John's Medical College and Hospital, opined that doctors must have cordial relations with patients. They must listen to the patient about his complaint for atleast five minutes. Then he will be infused with self-confidence. With this, his recovery will be faster, he averred.

Referring to health needs Dr. Patil was sore about the shortage of sports ground in schools, thereby depriving students of sports. They are seemingly under greater pressure to score higher marks and ranks. Naturally, diseases attack those under pressure faster. He suggested that to avoid disease, it is necessary to adopt a decent life style.

Justice M N Venkatachaliah, former Chief Justice of Supreme Court, who presided likened

Dr. Parameshwara as a role model for doctors. Referring to the veteran cardiologist as one who has attained international reputation, he disclosed how he had often rendered free medical service to the needy. He praised the three books as of international quality.

Dr. Parameshwara who thanked the three distinguished persons for their encouraging words said that in recent times there was an increase in the number of diabetes, heart attack, obesity and high blood pressure. He hoped his colleagues in the profession will pay greater attention towards the malaise.

Among those present on the occasion were Dr. (Mrs) Nalini Parameshwara, Sri H N Suresh, Director Bhavan's Bangalore Kendra and Sri H R Ananth, Chairman and Managing Director of the Bangalore Press, the publishers. ●

Providing the children of the country with an excellent pattern of education by ingeniously blending both history and modern science is the proud record of Dr. K.M. Munshi, the founder of Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan, declared Governor Dr. H.R. Bhardwaj, on Sept 9.

Dr. Bharadwaj who was speaking after declaring open the new building of the Bhavan-Bangalore Press School jointly run by the two reputed institutions on Mysore Road, maintained that it is only when the poorest of the poor children were provided sound health and education was the progress of the country possible.

GOVERNOR LAUDS MUNSHI'S SERVICES IN EDUCATION FIELD

But he was sore that the realm of health and education in the country has not received its importance. He bemoaned the incident where children died after partaking the midday meal. "It is still haunting my conscience" he said adding "Indeed there was an urgent need to see that children are provided with nutritious food" he added.

H.E. Dr. H.R. Bhardwaj, Governor of Karnataka being honoured by Sri. H.R. Ananth, Chairman, Bhavan-Bangalore Press School on the occasion of dedication of the school building while other dignitaries join.

Sri. N Ramanuja, Chirman, Bhavan Karnataka, welcomed the chief guest and explained the progress made by the Bangalore Kendra in the educational field. Among the others present in the function were Sri. H.N. Suresh, Director and Sri. K.G Raghavan Hon Secretary of the Kendra and Sri. H.R. Ananth CMD, Bangalore press

As many as 700 children from LKG and standard III are studying in the new school. The six-storey building on an area of 70,000 Sq.ft houses 28 class-rooms. It can boast of a specious lab, well-equipped library and decent playground.

THE NEW 6 STOREY BUILDING HAS 26 CLASS - ROOMS

While the Bangalore Press has provided the land for the ambitious project, Srijts Veerendra Heggade, Dayanda Pai, Manandi Nanjunda Setty and T.V. Mohandas Pai have extended munificent financial assistance to the school, where 80 per cent of students are from poor segments’.
